Typical Prospect Scenarios

Maximizing Deductions. Ted is 52 years old and expects to have a W-2 income of at least $300,000 in his law practice until he retires in ten years. Ted's firm is incorporated. By establishing a OnePersonPlus, he can contribute and take a tax deduction of $138,500. Adding a 401(k), James could contribute an additional $36,700 for a total deduction for 2010 of $175,200, more than 3 times what he could put into a SEP or 401(k) alone.

A short window until retirement.

Christine, age 58, and Bill, age 60, are married, each earning $245,000 a year from their anesthesiology practice. They both plan to retire, in five years. They set up a OnePersonPlus with tax-deductible annual contributions for Christine of $186,900 and for Bill of $178,400 for a combined tax savings of $138,800 in 2010.

Taking advantage of a part-time income opportunity. Jerry is a 56 year old professor in the local university Business School and plans to retire in 6 years. He consistently earns an additional $150,000 each year consulting after payment of self-employment taxes. The university provides him with a 403(b) plan to which he's been contributing. Jerry sets up a OnePersonPlus and makes a tax deductible contribution of $120,000 based on his consulting income – saving $45,600 on taxes for 2010.
